

Big & Small

Hello there and welcome to the June edition of the Big and Small newsletter ! Even though summer is here, Big and Small aren't taking any time off – in fact, they're working harder than ever...

New Series Begins Filming

The last couple of weeks has seen the start of production of the third series of Big and Small! We are delighted to be making more Big and Small episodes, which are being co-produced with Belfast-based Sixteen South, (whose other productions include CBeebies' shows Sesame Tree and Big City Park) and the production has received funding from Northern Ireland Screen. Lenny Henry is back to reprise his role as both Big and Small, and filming is due to be completed by early July. The new 26 episodes will take the total to 78, and keep B&S on our screens for a long time to come. Also, watch out for continued inclusion of Big and Small in CBeebies Weekly magazine and BBC Toybox magazine, including images from the new series!

Big and Small Live Show Nears Premiere

Tickadeeboo Productions, our friends across the pond in Canada, are putting the final touches to the first ever Big and Small live stage show. Based on an original script and featuring some of the well-loved songs from the series, Big and Small: Happy Together begins touring theatres in Canada in July. There'll be lots of fun and laughter when B&S take to the stage, and Tickadeeboo have already been inundated with theatre bookings. For more information, see the writer/director's website at www.markusmusic.com.
